REPORT AND RECOMMENDATIONS¹

Petitioner, Margarito Flores brings this Motion to Vacate, Set Aside or Correct his Sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 (Doc. # 233). The Motion is before the Court for initial review pursuant to Rule 4 of the Rules governing § 2255 cases.

Petitioner plead guilty and was convicted of conspiracy to distribute and possess cocaine and marijuana for intended distribution. On November 2, 2001, he was sentenced to 108 months of imprisonment and five years of supervised release. Petitioner thereafter appealed and on November 4, 2002, the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed Petitioner's conviction. The Court of Appeals held that Petitioner waived his right to appeal his sentence; the denial of a motion to withdraw guilty plea was not an abuse of discretion; no cognizable Apprendi error occurred; and, the calculation of drug quantity was not clearly erroneous. United States v. Flores, Case No. 01-4213 (6th Cir. Nov. 4, 2002). Petitioner did not file a petition for certiorari in the United States Supreme Court.

In his § 2255 Motion, Petitioner sets forth the following grounds for relief:

Ground One: The court abused its discretion by not sentencing Defendant under the drug having the lesser sentence in a multiple drug conspiracy with a general verdict.

Ground Two: The court abused its discretion by accepting a plea agreement and proffer from the defendant when the judge knew did not represent the voluntary knowledgeable agreement of the defendant.

Ground Three: My paid assistance of counsel was ineffective and unprofessional for the numerous reasons stated herein and but for the ineffective assistance of counsel, the result would have been different.

Ground Four: The court abused its discretion by allowing the prosecution to proceed driven by the government's motive of retaliation for the defendant's 1987 marijuana case dismissal.

Ground Five: The court abused its discretion after specifically stating a supreme court case (Apprendi) made the requirement of all elements of the offense to be in the indictment and that Apprendi applied to this case with the Sixth Circuit making drug amounts an element of the offense, which was later made applicable to the USSG in Booker and Fanfan by not dismissing the case for the lack of the drug amount element in the indictment.

A 1-year period of limitation applies to § 2255 Motions. The limitation period shall run from the latest of—

- (1) the date on which the judgment of conviction becomes final;
- (2) the date on which the impediment to making a motion created by governmental action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the movant was prevented from making a motion by such governmental action;
- (3) the date on which the right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if that right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or
- (4) the date on which the facts supporting the claim or claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

28 U.S.C. § 2255.

In Clay v. United States, 537 U.S. 522, 123 S. Ct. 1072 (2003), the United States Supreme Court held that for federal criminal defendants who do not file a petition for certiorari on direct review, § 2255's one-year limitation period starts to run when the time for seeking such review expires.

Petitioner's § 2255 Motion is barred by the applicable statute of limitations. The statute began to run on January 13, 2003 (69 days after the conviction became final) when the time for filing a petition for certiorari expired. The statute of limitations expired one year later- on January 13, 2004. Petitioner's § 2255 Motion was filed almost two years later on January 12, 2006, the date he placed the motion in the prison mailbox. Houston v. Lack, 487 U.S. 266 (1988).

Petitioner contends that his § 2255 Motion was filed within one year of the decision of the United States Supreme Court in United States v. Booker, ___U.S. ___, 125 S.Ct. 738 (2005) and that therefore his Motion is timely. However, the Booker decision is not applicable to cases on collateral review (i.e., cases brought under 28 U.S.C. § 2255). Humphress v. United States, 398 F. 3d 855 (6th Cir. 2005).

Because the Motion shows on its face that it is barred by the applicable statute of limitations, it should be denied with prejudice. Because reasonable jurists would not disagree with this conclusion, Petitioner should be denied leave to appeal in forma pauperis and a certificate of appealability.

IT IS THEREFORE RECOMMENDED THAT:

1. Petitioner's Motion to Vacate, Set Aside or Correct Sentence Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255 (Doc. # 233) be dismissed;

2. That a certificate of appealability not issue; and,
3. The case be terminated on the docket of this Court.
